1. == compares values, whereas === compares types
2. A closure is function having access to the parent scope, even after the parent function has been closed
3. Higher order functions are functions that work on other functions
4. The querySelector() method returns the first element that matches a specified CSS selector in the document.